Surgery Removes Kidneys

A young woman who has lived in Torrance most of her life is now home from Harbor General Hospital after having both kidneys removed. She must return at regular intervals to use an artificial kidney machine made available to her on a limited basis.

Awaiting cadaver kidney transplant is 21-year-old Mrs. Robert Mulligan (Jeannette Scirica), who now lives in Harbor City with her husband. During her convalescence, Mrs. Mulligan is staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Scirica, 1803 Schilling Drive, Torrance.

"I just want to thank everyone who's showed interest in Jeannette and sent their best wishes that she will be well soon," Mrs. Scirica said.

THE VICTIM'S sister-in-law, Mrs. Joe M. Scirica, explained that Mrs. Mulligan discovered her condition about one year ago, just a few months after she was married.

Spokesmen at Harbor General Hospital said the Mrs. Mulligan's "diseased and functionless" kidneys were removed May 15 "in preparation for ultimate kidney transplant."

THE STATEMENT continued, "It is anticipated that she will continue to receive intermittent treatments on the artificial kidney until such time as a transplantation is medically feasible. Mrs. Mulligan is one of many such individuals undergoing this form of treatment in Los Angeles."

The young patient's family has lived in Torrance for over 17 years. She is a 1965 graduate of Torrance High School.

Senator Finds

Voters Want Cuts In Welfare Costs

Returns from a survey conducted by Senator Ralph C. Dills (D-Gardena) of 90,000 households in his 32nd Senatorial District show that voters favor a curtailment in social welfare services in order that property taxes can be reduced.

Of those responding, 51.6 per cent said social welfare was their favorite target if services were to be curtailed in favor of property tax reduction. In addition, 14.9 per cent favored curtailment in Medi-Cal services, 6.2 per cent in education, and only 4.1 per cent in mental health.

The Dills survey also showed that 35 per cent are in favor of increased cigarette and liquor taxes to make up any deficit caused by reducing property taxes. Increased income corporate taxes followed at 25 per cent, with 16.4 voting for increased sales taxes and 5.3 per cent in favor of increased personal income taxes.

VOTERS IN the district solidly opposed monthly withholding of state income tax. The percentages were 37 in favor of withholding and 55.8 in favor of paying the tax in an annual lump sum.

Senator Dills said the four Assembly Districts (44th, 56th, 67th and 68th) within the 32nd Senatorial District each showed similar voter reactions with no significant deviations from the overall percentages.

In assessing the status of these issues in the Legislature, Senator Dills said that property tax relief programs are making headway. "While the relief may not be as meaningful as we would have hoped," he said, "it will be a step in the right direction."

He particularly noted action last week in the Assembly when the Ways and Means Committee approved an amended version of Assembly Bill 149, which would grant state funds to each of the 58 counties to permit boards of supervisors to cut property taxes.

THE ORIGINAL proposal would provide $155 million for the purpose, but the committee added another $35 million which could be available because state revenue this year has been greater than expected. Of this, Senator Dills said, $18 million would be used to double existing property tax relief available to senior citizens.

In addition, the measure would repeal the household furnishings tax. Senator Dills also pointed to the committee's action in approving a proposed constitutional amendment which would establish a double ratio system for property tax purposes, one for single-family, and another for all other property.
